Donation to Children's Rheumatology Clinic

Langmatz GmbH supports Garmisch special clinic with a donation of €5000

Garmisch-Partenkirchen, 4 December 2017 – While its proper name is the “German Centre for Child and Youth Rheumatology”, local Garmisch-Partenkirchen people simply refer to it as the “Children's Rheumatology Clinic”. Everyone knows it. But what hardly anyone knows is that this one-of-a-kind institution in Germany is even considered the largest special clinic in Europe for treating children and adolescents with rheumatic diseases and chronic pain syndromes. It has an excellent reputation throughout the country and many people are grateful for its outstanding expertise and caring interaction with patients. Langmatz presented the management of the clinic with a cheque for €5000 to support its multifaceted work. “The approaching Christmas holidays are always a good reason for a company to think about how they can give back some of their own success to society, but that's not the only reason. We are committed to the region and we are happy to support important facilities, such as the Children's Rheumatology Clinic, the two Managing Directors of Langmatz GmbH stressed as they handed over the cheque.
